Our Strong Points....

- Through the program credit unions were able to practice the principle of social responsibility.
- Leagues gained positive image in primary CUs.
- Program can be one venue for potential expansion of the league.
- It provides “local employment” at minimal scale.
- Educational Inputs which help strengthen operations of the primaries.
- Awareness of coops members on situation of the lower class in their community.

Our Strong Points....

- CUMI provides a very good alternative to the loan sharks, the program is able to slowly killing the business of loan sharks.
- “Have Less” members were able to save at the same time access loan at low interest rate.
- Enhance entrepreneurial knowledge and skills
- Develop their personality through interactions with group members.

Our CUMI “have less” member testimony

Through the CUMI loan, we are able to expand my meat processing businesses. I was able to save and send my children to school. I also provide employment to my neighbors they now have additional income. My family members are now becoming active in the business and this helps improved family relations.

Our Challenges....

- Geographical limitations posed by their physical location.
- Some CUMI members are land squatters.
- Issue on permanency of residence.
- Traditional thinking of credit unions BOD that poor people do not have the capacity to pay the loan.

Our Challenges

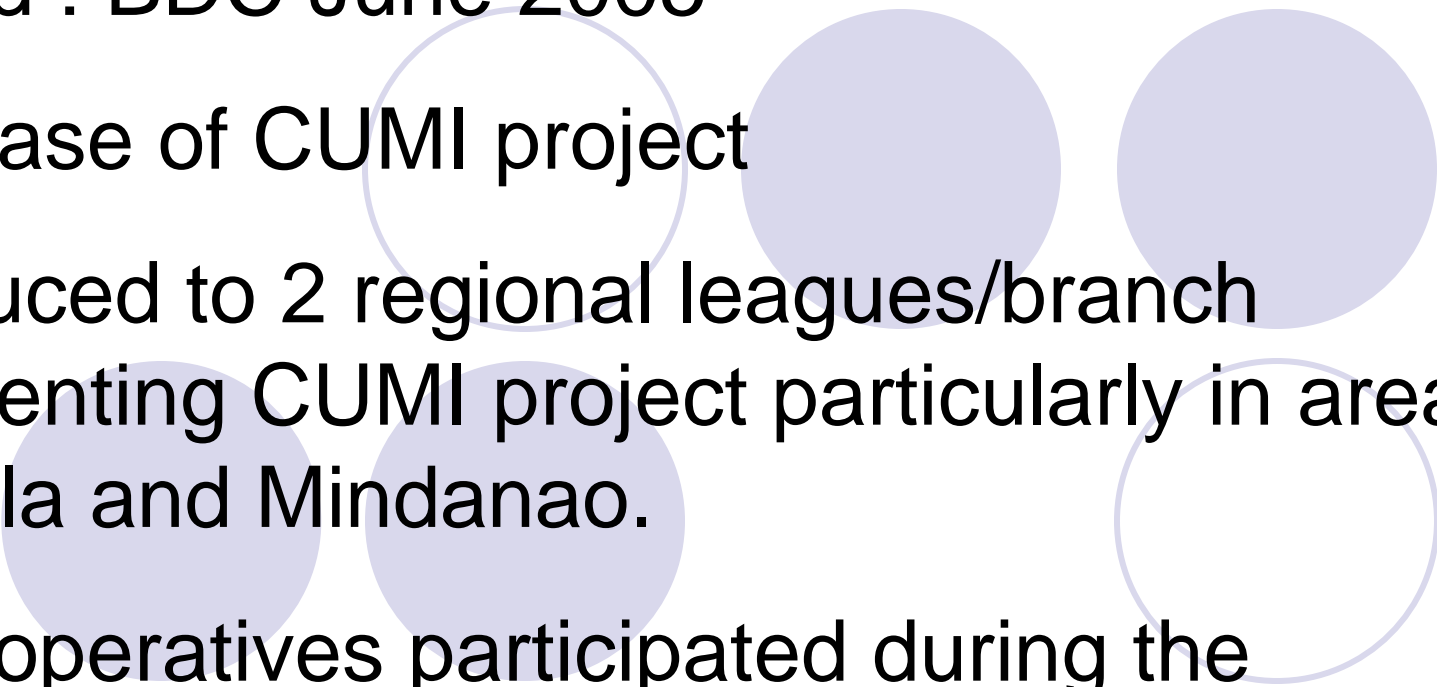

- Difficult data gathering in remote areas.
- Fund limitations on some coops.
- CUMI technology is so tedious. Staff have other works aside from CUMI.
- E-poor but battered wives

SUMMARY & CONCLUSIONS

- ACCU, co-signatory in the UNO's MDGs
- Focus of ACCU:
 - MDG 1: Eradicate Extreme Poverty
 - MDG 2: Promote gender equality and empower women

Summary & Conclusions

- Participation of the Philippine Federation of Credit Cooperatives in the MDG through CUMI.
- Participation of 6 Leagues in the Philippines

Summary & Conclusions

- CUMI, an instrument in socio-economic and political empowerment of women.
- CUMI has reduced poverty among 30,516 e-poor members and their families, 24,413 of whom are women.
- Generated at least US$1M savings from the e-poor
- Granted around US$4M loans that propelled business activities

Summary & Conclusions

- Challenges

- Human resources to dedicate in CUMI
- Data collection in remote areas
- Some coops consider the e-poor high risks
- Only a few coops are open to business with the e-poor
- Marketing of products and services
- CUMI Members hit by natural calamities

RECOMMENDATIONS

- Continue the CUMI
- Create Policy environment for ACCU members to accommodate the CUMI as a regular program
- Support for business centers
- Review salaries and benefits of CUMI staff in relation to their work load
- Create data base for CUMI
- Try including the whole family in CUMI orientation

Final Note

- Let us not surrender in reaching out to the poor ...because credit unions were born to address poverty. Our credit unions were once poor. Now that we have become richer, let's look back to our past and see who helped our coops grow.
- TODAY IS PAYBACK TIME - - OUR TURN TO LOOK FOR OUR POOR BRETHREN AND MAKE THEIR BURDEN LIGHT.

Final Note

- “The primary objective of the Credit Unions is to satisfy their members’ monetary needs. Money, however, is not the final goal of the cooperative work, but a means to an end “to improve the moral and material conditions of the members...”
 - Raiffeisen

- The goal of the credit union then is to restore the dignity of its members – imperiled and battered by poverty.
